

A Twitter Windstorm

Between Infamy & Distinction

Arranged & Edited by Paul Jason Ruggeri

This book is dedicated to my parents. To my mother who instilled in me a love of words, narration and clichés. She shared her father's love of Ben Franklin and my grandfather's favorite quote:

“There is a place for everything and everything in its place.”
~Ben Franklin

My father has shown me the very meaning of dedication by his example and the value of perspective and the importance of measured language. He has narrowed the world into three questions that he has asked his patients thousands of times:

“Is it better, worst or about the same?”
~ Sebastian B. Ruggeri

I love quotes because they are remembered for being timeless or remembered as means too often of making others eat their own words and rethink their conclusions.

I've made an effort to credit everyone quoted. If something is not credited the author was unknown to me. When I quote Sargon of Akkad, I am referring to the twitter user and YouTube content creator, not the first ruler of the Semitic-speaking Akkadian Empire.

Cisgender: a word coined to refer to people who aren't transgender, as an alternative to problematic terms like "normal," "regular" and "real".

Godwin's Law: (or Godwin's rule of Hitler analogies) is an Internet adage which asserts that "As an online discussion grows longer, the probability of a comparison involving Hitler approaches", that is, if an online discussion (regardless of topic or scope) goes on long enough, sooner or later someone will compare someone or something to Hitler.

Heterophobia: the supposed "fear and mistrust" of heterosexual people, presumably by non-heterosexuals (and possibly including asexual).

Homonormativity: a word that addresses the problems of privilege we see in the queer community today as they intersect with White privilege, capitalism, sexism, transmisogyny, and cissexism, all of which end up leaving many people out of the movement toward greater sexual freedom and equality.

Hitchens Law: That which can be asserted without evidence can be dismissed without evidence.

Ignorance: It is how some elections are won.

Islamophobia: a word created by fascists and used by cowards to manipulate morons.
~ Christopher Hitchens

Knowledge: knowing that Frankenstein was not the monster. Wisdom is understanding that Frankenstein was the monster.

The Patriarchy: The extraordinary belief that a patriarchal conspiracy enacted to benefit men at the expense of women, yet also hurts men and benefits women, is the root of all societal problems.

Poe's Law: No matter how bizarre, outrageous, or just plain idiotic a parody of a Fundamentalist may seem, there will always be someone who cannot tell that it is a parody, having seen similar REAL ideas from real religious/political Fundamentalists.

Racist: A person who wins an argument with an illiberal

Sargon's Law: whenever an ideologue makes a character judgement about someone they are debating with, that character judgement is usually true about themselves.

Socialism: is all about a central plan imposed, by force, from the top down. Socialism is about conformity, music is about individual expression. You can't get no satisfaction with socialism. Only liberty can give us that.

Stupid: knowing the truth, seeing the truth but still believing in lies.

White privilege: a thing has to be checked repeatedly when interacting with some of another race, gender, kin, etc.

CHAPTER ONE

Observations

Socialism just as good...

Anybody remotely interesting is mad, in some way or another.

Four things you can't recover: The stone...after the throw. The word...after it's said. The occasion...after it's missed. The time...after it's gone.

Knowledge is knowing that Frankenstein is not the monster. Wisdom is knowing that Frankenstein is the monster.

If we now ask what does man do and seek if he goes ahead in the horizontal, the answer is difficult. Sometimes one is inclined to say that the mere movement ahead, is what satisfies him. But this answer is by no means sufficient. For on his way into space and time man changes the world he encounters. For on his way into space and time man changes the world he encounters. And the changes made him, change himself. He transforms everything he encounters into a tool, and in doing so, he himself becomes a tool. Be if he asks, a tool for what, there is no answer.

We have to harden the schools, not soften them up. A gun-free zone to a killer or somebody that wants to be a killer, that's like going in for ice cream. That's like here I am, take me. Literally, that is the color palette on one side of the room. On the other side of the room, there are yellows and blues and whites and greens. Physically, there's a difference in color, in the tone, because on one side all men, all white, on the other side some woman, some people of color.

You know, whenever Pharaoh wanted to prolong the period of slavery in Egypt, he had a favorite, favorite formula of doing it. What was that? He kept the slaves fighting among themselves. But whenever the slaves get together, something happens in Pharaoh's court, and he cannot hold the slaves in slavery. When the slaves get together, that's the beginning of getting out of slavery. I've been labeled conservative ever since I can remember—and it wasn't meant as a compliment. Liberalism was sweeping the nation when I came of age, so being conservative was decidedly uncool. Most of my contemporaries were raised by baby-boomer parents who instilled in their children a left-wing view of the world, but my parents hailed from the Greatest Generation (those who lived through the Great Depression). Thus, I was raised with a different set of values. Admittedly, I didn't always like having older parents (as my mother will confirm); but today I am grateful for their wisdom has served me well. While the "cool" parents were less strict and seemingly more fun, many taught their children either directly or indirectly a jaded view of men, women and society. I didn't get any of that.

Dang [Colin Kaepernick] isn't it sad that you're more famous now for sitting down than any amazing work you did standing-up on the field? But to your credit you have been awarded the most valuable player, but maybe daddy can start a new category for most valuable sitter, but then again if your butt hurts so bad almost sitting down as a good remedy for it, but you want butt-hurt about racist America and how unfair it is to black folk, despite having highly-paid black man to your left and to your right - on your team getting paid a lot of money to do what they love doing, living the American dream? Yeah America is so unfair - Oh, in case you missed it you were adopted by white parents!! How unfair is that? You want to talk about how White folks are and that it out on the American flag? Yet the very first person to be unfair to you was a black man! That being your own father who walked out on you and your mom and the sad fact is that oftentimes the most unfair to black people, in the first, to be unfair to black people are their own fathers who walk out on them and their mothers, but all this racism and injustice that you're talking about that's not what the America flag stands for! The US flag represents this Republic that was founded to respect the God-given rights of every human being! It's not the flag's fault people take it for granted and misrepresent what it stands for, for their own selfish reasons ... Oh, the irony, when a black person is hardworking, educated, friendly, courteous, well-mannered and well-spoken you accuse him to be like people you insist are evil? TWILIGHT ZONE, MAN!!!

Pacifism is objectively pro-fascist. This is elementary common sense. If you hamper the war effort of one side, you automatically help out that of the other. Nor is there any real way of remaining outside such a war as the present one. In practice, 'he that is not with me is against me'

Yeah, that's her. With the gold. I better use some Tic Tacs just in case I start kissing her. You know, I'm automatically attracted to beautiful — I just start kissing them. It's like a magnet. Just kiss. I don't even wait. And when you're a star, they let you do it. You can do anything ... (Bush: Whatever you want?)... Grab 'em by the pussy. You do anything.

It's not news but it's worth repeating liberal arguments get help and traction from academia and media, who are populated by sympathizers with allegiances it subversions. This means that destructive ideas don't simply sprout; they flourish, and infest the cultural landscape like toxic weeds disguised as daisies. These ideas find nourishment everywhere. The good news: because it is so easy to get a good grade for a bad idea, or to get a story published because it meets the editor's assumptions, their intellectually muscles are lazy, verging on atrophied—after years of free rein.

We watched Ed Sullivan every Sunday night, my brother, my mom, and I. It wasn't even a question it was just what we did and then I never seen anyone like [The Beatles] It was like a revelation and when you're a little kid you don't know it's a revelation, but it was like the whole world lit up and I felt I could be friends with them and I'm black. (Laughs) People would say you want to be white? You like those guys? I never thought of them really as white guys – they were the Beatles, they were colorless and there were fing amazing. The Beatles gave me this idea that everybody was welcome. If you weren't the hippest kid in the neighborhood it didn't matter, you could be a Beatle fan and I liked that and that would carry me to the older days where I am my own person – I can look the way I want, I can be the way I want, it's okay. And I got that specifically from them.

To paraphrase an old adage, "I sought for the greatness of America in her harbors and in her rivers and I did not find it. I sought it in her fertile fields and boundless forests and did not find it. I sought her greatness in her halls of congress, and I did not find it." You see, after this campaign, I see it in us when we come together. When we lift one another with our eyes on the horizon. Throughout my campaign, I have said the Lord may have another purpose for me, and it set all the pundits on Twitter. "Does that mean he's not committed, or he's not focused, or he's not energetic?" It showed to some degree how little they understand about life. You see, I have said that the Lord has a purpose for me, as he has for everyone. And as I suspend my campaign today, I have renewed faith - deeper faith - that the Lord will show me the way forward, and fulfill the purpose of my life.

~ John Kasich (from his concession speech)

I do not believe, and I know this is a horrible thing to say, but I do not believe that the president loves America. He doesn't love you. And he doesn't love me. He wasn't brought up the way you

None of that is true at all. All this is created by the media that is out to get him. Each year it gets worse, they went after Romney and this is the worst I have ever seen. I mean they are going after him, they are taking things, you know the whole comic episode with Khan - well Hillary Clinton lied to Gold Star Mothers. She lied about the circumstances which that their children died - that's not a bigger deal or at least as big a deal? On the front page of the New York Times should have been the picture of John Kerry bowing to the Iranian - the man he's bowing to is a murderer, he's a terrorist, he has American blood on his hands and cuts for us killed Americans there are a lot of Gold STAR Mothers in the United States killed by Iranians under his leadership and he's bowing to him - to me this is the logo of the Obama administration - bowing to dictators and bowing to terrorists.

~ Rudy Giuliani

It was intentional but not terrorism.

~ Mayor de Blasio

I actually forgotten how far he went in criticizing America, but my, first of all let me make it clear as I did from the very beginning. I'm not questioning his patriotism as he did with President Bush. I believe you can be a critic and a patriot at the same time - we had many of those. My situation is of personal disappointment - President Obama, who had a great story to tell about a young man with a lot of issues, like a lot of us have had, in some cases his were worst, yet he made it in America - that's the rhetoric which Ronald Reagan and Bill Clinton - the man from Hope - and the cowboy riding out on the clouds, that is the way in which they made us feel like we're part of a great country, that we had a unlimited boundless future, particularly Reagan, Clinton didn't quite have that talent, they could lift our spirits and then having gotten us to feel good about ourselves they could deliver certain criticisms, not the same way [Obama] is doing, which is constant - to me this is a source of great personal disappointment because even as a democrat I expected that first part out of him - what he does is he emphasizes our weaknesses, our failures, our sometimes perceived failures that I believe he's making up and that's the headline and then when he does mention a few good things about America it's the footnote. I have not encountered an America president like that in my lifetime, whether it's Truman a democrat or Reagan a Republican so it's a matter of personal disappointment in the fact that he doesn't elevate my country -he doesn't evoke that he loves this country when you do it that way. When I listen to his language I hear the language of a man who was never talking about the greatness of America, the boundless possibilities of America; what we can do with oil, what we can do with fracking, what we can do in terms of the growth of our economy, how we can bring people out of poverty in a positive way. All I hear mostly are criticisms and then the occasional modest solutions to those criticisms so he's not a cheerleader for America, he's a critic; it's as if you were a movie critic as opposed to the guy who acted in the movie. I lost 3000 people and ten of my best friends. You think I'm going to forget [his minister the Sunday after 9/11 damn America and that church not walking out?]

I got high for just the opposite effect, something that could push questions of who I was out of my mind, something that could flatten out the landscape of my heart, blur the edges of my memory. I had discovered that it didn't make any difference whether you smoked reefer in the white classmate's sparkling new van, or in the dorm room of some brother you'd met down at the gym, or on the beach with a couple of Hawaiian kids who had dropped out of school and now spent most of their time looking for an excuse to brawl. ... Bush was a disaster for the country as well as for the Republican Party. Then he asked me about Barack Obama. I told him that Barack will need to be a great president because we're in serious trouble as a country. It hasn't been this way since 1929. So he doesn't have much choice—he will simply have to be great, which he has a very good chance of being. What he has done is amazing. The fact that he accomplished what he has—in one year and against great odds—is truly phenomenal.

So often in the past there has been a division between left and right, between capitalists and communists or socialists, and especially in the Americas, that's been a debate, oh, you know, you're a capitalist Yankee dog, and oh you know, you're some crazy communist that's going to take away everybody's property. State is your mood, your emotions, or how you feel in the present moment. The way we treat state is a bit contradictory. On one hand, we are never told even as children, “Learn to control your emotions! But other than perhaps counting backwards from 10, we are never told how. Instead, state is something we treat as being passive. It is simply “given.” We feel a certain way and we must accept that feeling. When we feel good, we have a good day and treat people well. When we feel badly, we treat people poorly while having a horrible day. In some cases people have horrible years or miserable lifetimes, due to living in servitude to their moods. We’ve all heard the expression, “I woke up on the wrong side of the bed!” This is a recognition that “It’s going to be one of those days,” where nothing seems to go right. It is recognizing something about your state. But it is also approaching your state with an attitude of passiveness, of resignation, indeed even of what Thoreau referred to as “quiet desperation.”

Your thoughts—those that predominate—determine your character, your career, indeed, your everyday life. Thus it becomes easy to understand what is meant by the statement that “A man’s thoughts make or break him.” And when you realize that there can be no action or reaction, either good or bad, without the generating force of thought initiating it, then the Biblical saying, “For whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap,” and Shakespeare’s words, “There is nothing either good or bad, but thinking makes it so,” become more intelligible.

Except women and feminists are not one of the same, love. While feminists can be women, there are women who are not feminists.

~ TylerPreston20 @TylerPreston20

Instead of defending women, our culture seems to want to turn women into men. We've not just rejected masculinity, but femininity as well. The truth is both of these are beautiful and complimentary things that should be celebrated.

~ Lauren Southern

The thing about feminists who take things too far is that they have no introspection. This goes for all fanatics.

~ Paul Ruggeri

There's an individual feminism; if you will that you make your own choices. ... I look at myself as a product of my choices, not a victim of my circumstances. That's really to me what conservative feminism, if you will, is all about.

~ Kellyanne Conway

Hypersexualization occurs when a character is designed to be valued primarily for their sexual characteristics or behaviors. In hypersexualized characters, these attributes are highlighted above all else, while everything else about the characters is made secondary.

Next we're gonna get rid of "man" out of "woman". We'll just call them Wo.

~ Josh Bosheff

To call a man an animal is to flatter him; he's a machine, a walking dildo. It's often said that men use woman. Use them for what? Surely not pleasure.

~ Valerie Solanas

This entire movement started with Harvey Weinstein. Let's not forget that simple fact. I believe deeply in due process, but I also believe a hundred women are a compelling voice for truth. That said I would respectfully counsel artists not to take business meetings in a hot tub.

The problem with feminists isn't that they're hateful and outrageous, it's that they're hateful and outrageous while claiming to be just, moral, caring, and egalitarian.

~ Milo Yiannopoulos, Dangerous

Men act and women appear. Men look at women. Women watch themselves being looked at. This determines not only most relations between men and women but also the relation of women to themselves.

~ John Berger, Ways of Seeing

A serious girl, when she finds someone who calms her spirit and quiets her busy thoughts, will love you so fiercely, it will defy even her own logic and reasoning.

(It's Official, Men Still Prefer Women to be Young and Thin)

That's just terrible. So a loving family has to die in a blazing fire all because fing feminists bitch about equality in the workplace.... THIS IS NOT SOMETHING YOU CAN JUST DO ON YOUR OWN WOMEN!! Men are physically stronger and more likely to break down that door. It makes me sick because feminazis would rather have higher death rates regarding fire all for their sick agenda. They can go f off because I don't think firefighter is up their alley.

Feminism is dead. The movement is absolutely dead. The women's movement tried to suppress dissident voices for way too long. There's no room for dissent. Feminist ideology is like a new religion for a lot of neurotic women. You can't talk to them about anything.

The Biggest Lie Feminism Tells Women “You can have and deserve it all” – Time, energy and personal ability are limited or finite things. A person can’t be in two places at one time, you have to choose between the high powered business meeting and the school recital. Something always has to give, make your choices and live with the effects. Don’t blame others.

How to be a feminist: 1) tell lies 2) get called out 3) call your critics abusers and harassers 4) bully media into agreeing 5) repeat.

Anita Sarkesian has said that, because Princess Peach is always getting kidnapped in Super Mario franchise the game are subtly promoting the idea that women are weak and helpless, always needing men to rescue them. Liberalism is romantic. Women love a man who fights for her rights, even if the fight suggests she can't fight for herself. And men dig the war on patriarchy, while leeching off his parents on tuition. It's a luxury: you can hold destructive opinions without actually experiencing any of their consequences. Nothing makes speaking truth to power easier than a nice trust fund.

Anita Sarkeesian is basically the heroine of feminism right now because she did one thing they have so far not really been able to do and that is she located patriarchy and the only way for feminists to do that is rearrange facts.

~ Diana Davison @d2davison

My analysis is very well researched. It's double and triple checked!

The entire work of Anita Sarkeesian consists of saying video games are making you sexist. From her video: 'Ironically, those who strongly believe that video games are harmless entertainment are also the ones most likely to internalize harmful media messages. The more you think you cannot be affected, the more likely you are to be affected.'...This is as toxic and idiotic as conservative[s] saying video games violence makes you violent in real life.

~ Paul Ruggeri

There's really no such thing as "escapism" in mass media. You can't "escape" culturally reinforced values and messages embedded in narratives.

~ Jonathan Mcintosh

Feminist media analysis is rarely as simple as "No, this is not sexist" or "Yes, this is sexist". Within both media and society itself, unexamined sexist beliefs and actions are pervasive, sometimes in very obvious ways, but also in more subtle and often unexamined ones. For example, we don't bat an eye if the main cast of an action film is composed entirely of men, but if the cast is all female it is often seen as bizarre or noteworthy. These attitudes are very much like air pollution.

~ Anita Sarkeesian

The idea that men are more violent and aggressive because of biology is 100% bulls.

Manhood is socially constructed.

When Disney, Princess Peach & even Ms. Pacman is said to oppress women and girls maybe we really are being oppressed; not by video games and movies, but by pop culture critiques who believe they are social engineers.

~ Paul Ruggeri

Feminism: the radical notion that you can call patrons, fan and prospective voters sexist as some kind of marketing ploy

Choice feminism posits that each individual woman determines what empowering for herself, which might sound good on the surface, but this concept risks obscuring the bigger picture and larger fundamental goals of the movement by focusing on individual women with a very narrow individual notion of empowerment. It erases the reality that some choices women make have an enormous negative impact on other women's lives. So it's not enough to feel personally empowered or personally successful within the oppressive framework of the current system. Even if an individual woman can make patriarchy work for her, it's still a losing game for the rest of the women on the planet. The fact of the matter is that some choices have ramifications beyond ourselves and reinforce harmful patriarchal ideas about women as a group and about women's bodies in our wider shared culture.

~ Anita Sarkeesian

(The reason we can't have sexy video game characters):

It links our value as human beings within our culture to our desirability to men and it reinforces our culturally-influenced ideas about who gets to be considered desirable and who doesn't.

~ William McGum

I honestly cannot imagine how much a fool you would have to be to give [Anita Sarkeesian] another dime.

~ Lauren Southern

I don't think that's anything new - I think that these are deeply ingrained these attitudes towards all of this and one of the biggest tricks that feminism has ever pulled with the biggest cons is that they claim to be against those attitudes and those norms I guess, if you will, but they are masters of exploiting them, so essentially - I mean what is domestic violence legislation that specifically protects women against their male partners - what does that say about men and women, says that men are strong and when women are weak that men are dangerous women need protection, these are not new, attitudes extremely old attitudes and so they've essentially taken every little thing that sort of maybe part of our biological wetware and then it gets reinforced by society and culturation of those things they've taken all of those things that our age-old that existed forever and they've completely exploited them to their own ends and all the while claiming that they're dismantling all of those norms - it's absolutely ridiculous.

~ Karen Straughan

Today's Americans know the media are generally liberal, if not outright leftist. (To put media bias in perspective, during the 2008 election year, 1,160 employees at the three major networks ABC, NBC, AND CBS – contributed more than $1 million dollars to Democratic candidates. By contrast, only 193 employees contributed a total of $142,863 to Republican candidates.) But when we think of media, we often think only of television and radio. Another arm of liberal bias is publishing, which includes books like Secrets of Powerful Women, as well as dozens of women's magazines. They are a significant part of the liberal establishment. Myrna Blyth, former Ladies' Home Journal editor, exposed her former colleagues in Spin Sisters: How the Women of the Media Sell Unhappiness and Liberalism to the Women of America. She wrote: "Women's magazines, a nearly $7 Billion – a year business, are based on telling women their lives are too tough for them to handle and they should feel very sorry for themselves. This distorted vision of life is absolutely crazy. By now, most people understand there's a culture war in America between folks on the right who want to preserve our country's traditions and folks on the left who want to change America, but feminist bias is not recognized as an essential part of media bias. Yet a significant portion of the left in America is female, and they have convinced Americans that women are victims of an unjust, patriarchy society and must look to the government to redress their grievances.

~ Suzanne Venker, The Flipside of Feminism

Feminism has undergone different waves in our society, and I feel it's less about equality between the sexes today and more about liberating people from any type of decimation caused by patriarchy.

~ Amandla Stenberg

Equality doesn't mean women will all make the same choice. It means women will be treated the same no matter what choices they make.

Katniss Everdeen is truly a hero for young women. Young women are growing up in a culture that tells them they should always put their own needs and desires first. That it is moral triumph to live only for yourself. Your needs, your desires, your goals, your ambitions, your own personal fulfillment should trump everything and everyone else. Even your husband. Even your children. I hope young women who read the Hunger Games get the message and respond to the wider culture with a great big F YOU. Chose Primrose. Choose Rue. Choose love. Choose their lives over yours. You just might find it the most fulfilling thing of all.

~ Janet Bloomfield, feminism't

It's interesting to look at three people who are equal parts of a project and see how differently we are valued. We used to get a lot of, 'Martin how do you write the songs? Lauren, what kind of tour diet do you go on?' In reviews, people talk about how I look, about my girlish voice and my pixie-esque demeanor, but they don't talk about how the guys look.

~ Lauren Mayberry

Once you accept the premise that the feminine is priori superior to the masculine, the plan of attack becomes quite obvious: men must become feminine or be forever defined as inferior and unworthy. It's a tongue in cheek aphorism that feminists hate men, but of course, that's not true. They love men. As long as men act like women.

~ Janet Bloomfield, feminism't

Feminism in a nutshell: Supporting women at the expense of everything else.

~ Vic Hedrust @Victor_Hedrust

There are as many violent women as men, but there's a lot of money in hating men, particularly in the United States--millions of dollars. It isn't a politically good idea to threaten the huge budgets for women's refuges by saying that some of the women who go into them aren't total victims.

Feminists: a group of insecure women who blame men for their failings instead of taking responsibility for them.

~ Ceara McCord @CearaRobin

Mothers who breastfeed boy babies need to stop. We need to empower more females in this world and by breastfeeding them we're giving them a good start in life which they deserve over a baby boy which are already physically stronger than baby girls. I have feminist views and I am not ashamed to admit that. No boy baby will ever be fed from my breasts if I am unfortunate enough to have a son. Formula for him and circumcision to take away sexual pleasure from him when he grows up.

~ Hailey Martin

I think it's the fault line in feminism showing up again. Feminism is supposed to be about social, political and economic equality between men and women, but it's not. It's a philosophy and ideology that women should never make anyone else's need matter more than their own, but men should continue to exist in service to others.

~ Janet Bloomfield, feminism't

Under the guise of escapism and pleasure, we are getting images of imagined power that mask, and even erase, how much still remains to be done for girls and women, images that make sexism seem fine, even fun, and insist that feminism is now utterly pointless--even bad for you.

Feminism actively dismantled the role of men in society then tried to blame "toxic masculinity"

Flippantly using misogynist imagery to show how bad an evil character is trivializes the experiences of actual victims of gendered violence.

I want to start by asking a question if feminism is a movement about equality why don't we see equal representation of gender issues and why don't we see women complain about the benefits they have over men in certain situations.

I always thought of myself in the future. This was just my temporary body, and my real self would have a thin body. Because that's what real people have. But when you don't think of yourself as a real thing, when you live in the future, you can't advocate for yourself in the present. You can't demand respect and rights and humanity, because you don't really exist.

Feminists get upset when you say that you won't rape them. I think I've transcended beyond laughter at this point.

~ Vernaculis @Vernaculis

Domestic violence used by women against men is a phenomenon that has received little attention within the media, academia and the political elite. Despite this lack of attention, for nearly four decades the best research indicates that men are also frequently the targets of domestic violence. And yet, the media and our political/judicial elite often frame domestic violence merely as "violence against women", thus generating the false and misleading assumption that males are always the aggressors and are more capable of harming their female partners.

FEMINISM: Men like beautiful women, and therefore beauty is bad because men are wrong.

~ FreeStacy @Not_RSMcCain

No committed left-winger sings the praises of conservative women such as Dr. Laura Sclessinger, Michelle Malkin, Sarah Palin, Michele Bachmann, or even Margaret Thatcher—despite the fact that they have, or have had, it all. That's why the so-called women's movement (a misleading term, for it suggests all women are on the same page) is bogus. The feminist movement was never about supporting all women, just liberal women. It was not designed to level the playing field; it was designed rearrange society to make life more suitable to feminists. It was designed "to change the language, the tempo, the character of the world. Here's a twist: What if you're a woman who isn't "soft and submissive"—but thinks America is pretty great? What if you're a strong, independent woman, as feminists claim women should be, but don't believe women are victims? My mother was a trailblazer. She received a master's degree from Radcliffe College in 1952. And trust me: no one could accuse my mother of being "soft", "submissive," or "taking a back seat." On the contrary, she was brave enough to enter the male-dominated world of stock traders—at Merrill Lynch, in the 1950s. When faced blatant sexism, she didn't whine about it or give up; she went to work at G. H. Walker (another investment bank), where the men were happy to have her. "People who succeed do not expect every company to reward fairly; they screen for companies that will recognize their contribution," wrote Warren Farrell, Ph.D. in The Myth of Male Power. Indeed, smart women forge ahead in the face of adversity—they don't stop to complain about being mistreated. As my mother always told me, "There will always be people who want to drag you down. Don't let them."

I'm not here to tell you how to be a feminist, or whether you should be one at all. I call myself a feminist to f with people, and because it's a great way to weed out the creeps in bars, but feminism isn't an identity. Feminism is a process. Call yourself what you like. The important thing is what you fight for. Begin in now.

I'm really interested in a conversation about what spaces we can define for ourselves as women... On most sets that I'm on, 80% of the people are men. I would just love to see what it looks like if 80% of the people on set were women. I don't even know what we would create differently or what would happen but I'd love to find out.

Feminism has never just been about liberating women from men, but about freeing human being from the straitjacket of gender oppression.

~ Laurie Penny

We still have not decided, as a species, that women are sentient - and as more and more fembots appear on our screens and in our stories, we should consider how our technology reflects our expectations of gender. Who are the users, and who gets used? Unless we can recalibrate our tendency to exploit each other, the question may be whether the human race can survive the machine age - but whether it deserves to.

Every day I wake up and wonder, "What incredibly stupid thing has Lena Dunham said now?" And Lena doesn't disappoint.

~ Cathy Young @CathyYoung63

Only by remembering to say 'no' will the women of the 21st century regain their voice and remember their power. 'No' is the most important word in a woman's dialectic arsenal, and it is the one word that our employers, our leader, and often, the men in our lives would do anything to prevent us from saying. No, we will not serve. No, we will not settle for the dirty work, the low-paid work, the unpaid work. No, we will not stay late at the office, look after the kids, sort out the shopping. We refuse to fit the enormity of our passion, our creativity, and our potential into the rigid physical prison laid down for us since we were small children. No. We refuse. We will not buy your clothes and good. Most of all, we refuse to be beautiful and good.

~ Laurie Penny

Most of us have been socialized to accept men's sports as dominant, and somehow automatically more interesting. The problem is that once society has internalized this falsehood - and let's face it, it's a falsehood that's millennia in the making it's not so easy to correct.

~ Shane Ferro

Sports fans, for the most part, will watch what you put in front of them.

~ Kavitha A. Davidson

Blame it on the women dear. They outnumber men, if they were watching woman sports to the degree that men watch male sports, every single network would be falling over themselves to market these games. But here's the rub: women (as a whole) really don't want to watch sports, they have other interests.

~ Takuan Soho

Not one single woman on the national soccer team would make the men's team. As good as Serena Williams is, she'd get skunked by the 125th best man in the world. America cares about the biggest/fastest/strongest and it is just indisputable, biological fact that women are not equal to men in physical strength. Women's sports are unpopular for the same reason that college baseball, D-League basketball, arena league football, etc. are not popular ... because they don't feature the best athletes.

Feminism is dead. The movement is absolutely dead. The women's movement tried to suppress dissident voices for way too long. There's no room for dissent. Feminist ideology is like a new religion for a lot of neurotic women. You can't talk to them about anything.

Any religion which sacrifices women to the brutality of men is no religion.

Feminists assume that marital traditions such as father giving the bride away were a reflection of Patriarchy. But the father gave away the bride because it was the father giving away his responsibility to protect. (no one gave the man away because no one would protect a man. The job of the parent was to turn the son into a protector, not give him away to a protector).
~Warren Farrell, The Myth of Male Power

I have been attacked by militant feminists since I got on twitter. That's something I'm used to. Every breed of feminism is attacking every other breed, and every sub-section of liberalism is always busy attacking another sub-section of liberalism, because God forbid they should all band together and actually fight for the cause.
~ Joss Whedon

The one person who will never leave us, whom we will never lose, is our self; learning to love our female selves is where our search for love must begin.
~ Bell Hooks.

That is the corrosive paradox of gender feminism's misandrist stance: no group of women can wage war on men without at the same time denigrating the women who respect those men. It is just not possible to incriminate men without implying that large numbers of women are fools or worse.
~ Christina Hoff Sommers

Real relationships don't involve fantasies. They are all about facing the nitty gritty details of life with humor and cheer and compromise and most of all, an infallible sense of being together in the storm. You can't image away your partner's flaws, nor your own. You have to face them, and try to keep your head and stay rational and sane even when you feel like you will lose your mind if he fails once again to break down the empty cereal box before piling it up on all the other recycling.

~ Janet Bloomfield

First, this is a woman who clearly doesn't give a s about her child's well-being and future prospects – children of single mothers do poorly on every imaginable scale: they have emotional problems, experience more stress, are more likely to grow up poor, they have lower educational achievements and experience way more behavioral problems than children who grow up with married parents. Depression, suicide, drug, jail and psychiatric medication are more common in populations of children raised by single mothers. Second, single mothers are clearly really, really shty at making life decisions. Having a child out of wedlock is pretty much the number one thing you can do to f up your life. You can pick up a heroin addiction, drop out of high school, rob a bank or decide to write the American novel financing yourself on your credit cards. All of those things can be fixed. You can go to rehab, get your GED, get parole, and pay off those cards. But once you have a child, you cannot take it back. It's done.

~ Janet Bloomfield

The gender binary is an entirely artificial and socially constructed division of male and female into two distinctly separate and opposing classes of human being. The gender binary also erases the continuum of gender presentations and identifies that fall outside of the rigid masculine/feminine false and within that strict binary; women are “marked”, while men get to remain largely “unmarked.”

~ Anita Sarkeesian

Men act and women appear. Men look at women. Women watch themselves being looked at. This determines not only most relations between men and women but also the relation of women to themselves.

~ John Berger, Ways of Seeing

Apparently the Amazing Atheist is "harassing" Anita Sarkeesian by running a more successful fundraiser that might actually help women. LOL!

~ Milo Yiannopoulos

If someone disagrees with a Social Justice Warrior and is white or straight, they will likely be told to educate themselves or check their privilege. It is an attack on an individual's characteristics instead of their argument. It's not dissimilar from saying, your arguments is white therefore your argument is invalid. In fact, based on the definition of racism ... it would appear as though assuming someone is privileged or disadvantaged based on their skin color is in fact racist.

~ Lauren Southern @Lauren_Southern

Do what you want to do, say what you want to say, some people will like it, others won't. That's just life. Appreciate the positive, don't dwell on the negative, but please, for the love of God, stop

~ June @shoeonhead

I like how these people (Social Justice Warriors) always put down Western Society as if there a better society. I'm pretty sure in Russia I would get chased down by Putin's mob, in the Middle East, I'd get thrown off a building and in Africa, I'd straight up just get murdered onsite, so where is this... you're pretty damn lucky to live here.

~ Blaire White @MsBlairWhite

Women who are struggling economically or coping with gender biased, they are going to best served by truth and careful research, not high spin, factoids or advocacy data. It is both possible (and even necessary) to simultaneously enjoy media while also being critical of its more problematic or pernicious aspects.

~ Anita Sarkeesian

Video games have a huge impact on our society because the media plays a role in helping to shape our attitudes. So it's not just fantasy.

~ Anita Sarkeesian

I have been in the heart of this movement since day one and all I have seen is nothing but acceptance and support from many smart, funny, talented, passionate women and men who just love video games and want to protect their hobby from corruption and a forced agenda. The only harassment I ever see comes from anonymous egg accounts that were made that day and other third parties attempting to stir sh. All I see from this side is gamergate telling these trolls to f off and report the accounts. The only hatred I see is hatred for liars, corrupted media and con artists. Anti- gamergate blocks and silences minorities and women who do not fit their narrative and who are a threat to their agenda. They even have a program designed to mass block everyone who has a different opinion than them. I was doxxed by the "anti-gamergate" side the second week everything happened and my personal information [as well as private pictures] were added to a list alongside many other pro-gamergate people like: Milo, Adam and Totalbiscuit. The media never covers any of the awful things that anti-gg does because it did not fit the narrative. Most if not all of those against gg cannot get it through their heads that we are individuals. They are unable to not groupthink. one bad apple = all of gamergate. One gamergate person is a homophobe = all of gamegate. They throw us into labels like "conservatives" (even though it been proven 90% of gg are left wing) and cover their ears screaming "misogyny" when faced with facts or logic. It's absolutely bizarre. They can kick and scream sexism all they want. They can edit wikipedia pages. They can block out women's voices and hide in thir little echo chamber all they want. The truth will always prevail.

~ June @ShoeOnHead

One of the core messages in many video games is "kill or be killed." That is a very political message with deep ideological underpinnings.

~ Jonathan McIntosh

Lies within the first five seconds of the video. Please point to the game which are showing violent depictions of women being raped. Oh, no, never mind, it's not about news, it's about yellow sensationalism. The truth does not apply when ideology is at play. Gentle reminder that the Mainstream Media is no friend to the game industry and has been relentless in its negative depiction of it for decades. This interview was astonishingly one-sided and unsurprisingly the interviewed critic (Anita Sarkeesian) lacked actual critical solutions to solving what she views as a problem to begin with. Next time, why not interview one of the many thousands of talented women working in this space to get an actual perspective on what it's like, rather than someone who professionally baits controversy yet seems to lack the necessary knowledge to provide any tangible improvements that could be made to address the perceived problems.

~Total Biscuit

"Don't like it, don't buy it" is a bad argument. Cultural criticism isn't about personal preferences, it's about examining meaning in media.

~ Jonathan McIntosh

The ironic problem with the way Anita Sarkeesian and her followers see these tropes is that if a woman at any point is in need of help, she gets labeled as a damsel in distress and everything else about her character becomes irrelevant. If a female character is sexy, she is a sex object and nothing more.

The United States bombed [japan] back to traditional values - feminism does not exist in Japan. While I don't like judging an entire culture...that does not excuse them.

~ Anita Sarkeesian

That is the problem, Anita, Brianna, and so many others are crying "harassment", "hatred", etc. just because someone is criticizing them. It has become a complete joke. Anita even stated in a panel that she wanted to pressure game developers to make games that she deems appropriate, but I'm sorry, I may not be a AAA developer, but I am not going to be told what I can and can't make. These people, as well as both sides of the controversy are allowed to say what they want within reason thanks to our rights and freedoms, but they aren't going to censor my right to expression through video games. That is another thing that makes me laugh. Apparently, calling for no more use of certain tropes and no more sexualized female characters in games isn't censorship in their minds.

~ Clayton Weaver

Stories matter. Stories are how we make sense of the world, which doesn't mean that those stories can't be stupid and stupid and simplistic and full of lies. Stories can exaggerate and offend and they always, always matter.

There's no such thing as sexism against men. That's because sexism is prejudice plus power. Men are the dominant gender with power in society.

There's no such thing as racism against Jews. That's because racism is prejudice plus power. Jews are the dominant race with power in society.

One of the most radical things you can do, is to actually believe women when they tell you about their experiences.

~ Anita Sarkeesian

Male Entitlement is the conviction that men are owed something by virtue of their gender. It is the belief structure that tells men they deserve to have their whims catered to both culturally and interpersonally. One of the most harmful aspects of male entitlement is the belief that men have a right to survey and use women's bodies.

~ Anita Sarkeesian

As a child, I heard in my home doctors and ambulance men say, 'Mrs. Stewart, you must've done something to provoke him.' 'Mrs. Stewart, it takes two to make an argument.' Wrong. Wrong! My mother did nothing to provoke that - - and even if she had, violence is never ever a choice that a man should make. Ever.

~ Patrick Steward

I am gonna start a crowd funder called "Hey bitch give me a dollar" then donate it to homeless vets or something. Then start another one called "I don't want to be a homeless vet" and donate that to me buying a small home in the woods. Lol.

I admire Anita. She has found a way to trick simple minded people into giving her hundreds of thousands of dollars in exchange for absolutely nothing. Once I figure out how to do the same, I'll let you all know.

~ Cub Games

A fool and their money are soon parted and these days I am surprised that they even get together in the first place.

~ Citizen Smith

If Anita Sarkeesian doesn't like all the male dominated media out there why doesn't she stay away from it and surround herself with people who do the same? If she doesn't want to constantly have people to treat her unfairly for being a woman why doesn't she buzz her head and wear jeans and baggy clothes? The only reason she wears earrings and has long hair is because that is because that is the patriarchal expectation for women by her dressing within the confines of the expectation she is enforcing the driven society. My thoughts are she wouldn't make money doing anything I said.

~ ZarPol

Manspreading. Yeah. Women don't seem don't seem to understand that balls need space.

~ Information Warfare

Anita Sarkeesian claimed she's been gaming all her life, and then took a picture next to a stack of games to prove she's a "gamer" yet... People have screen caps of her admitting she first picked up a game for the first time in her 20's. [A laughing face.] Long story short... Anita's a con artist who doesn't drink her own koolaid nor believe in her own preaching. Sadly people buy into her bull, and throw money at her.

~ SlavenHarkin

Finally figured out a fix to batman's ass blocking cape, assless pants/cape combo, LOL, seriously who pays [Anita Sarkeesian] to consult? And why? Only reason I can think of is her name in the credits to make the feminazis feel good.

I'm now almost positive that half of the "feminists" aren't even "feminists", their just women who want to be treated better than men and will do whatever it takes for people to agree with them.

~ Cassidy Pitman

[Anita Sarkeesian] reminds me of a feminist that tried to get my husband fired because he refused to serve her ahead of everyone else in line at his place of employment and made her wait her place in line like everyone else had to. He was called to the supervisor's office an hour later and had to face being accused of making sexist comments, refusing to serve her because she was a woman and several other accusations. What she didn't know is the work stations are under constant video and sound observation. Even when confronted with evidence she lied, refusing to relent and was told to leave and was banned from the establishment.

When I was young, it seemed that life was so wonderful,
A miracle, oh it was beautiful, magical...
But then they send me away to teach me how to be,
Sensible, logical, responsible, practical.

And they showed me a world where I could be so dependable...
 Now watch what you say or they'll be calling you a radical,
 Liberal, fanatical, criminal...

 I know it sounds absurd
 But please tell me who I am.

This is called empathy, not privilege, of which I may have in too large an amount and perhaps why I rankle so much at the term 'privilege'. It's also something that is probably impossible to teach. You may claim the lack of empathy is precisely the point... well, good luck.

Yes, refusing to date someone due to your personal preferences is a form of bigotry known as 'inverse rape'. The only way we can progress as a society is to force people to date those they aren't sexually attracted to. This will put a stop to discriminatory.

~ Thomas Sowell

I just don't really like the faux diversity that we're all attached to now where you look at somebody's skin color or this person, these immutable characteristics, and say, 'oh, that's diversity because this person's black or this person's a woman or this person's this or that.'

~ Justice Clarence Thomas

Just like the terrorists in the Middle East surround their hideout with women and children so if you bomb the hideout, you kill these innocent people. The Social justice Warrior types do exactly the same thing. They find a hypothetically vulnerable group, and they use them as a protective shield while they move incrementally forward. If you object, suddenly you're picking on the poor, vulnerable people.

I am sorry to say. We as a society are sitting on a powder keg. And the regressives are sitting there playing with the fuse in a bathtub full of gas lighting matches. They do not realize they will

To put it bluntly, they are convincing me that I do not want to see the results. I do not want to see my own personal hell, somewhere I cannot speak freely, come to pass.

~ Kelsey the human lightning rod

Apparently violently shutting down speakers is an A Okay position if you think those ideas are bad ones, that's just you being a good and responsible intellectual by removing bad ideas from the discourse. The discourse is controlled by no one nor will it ever be; one can do their best to influence the discourse with opinions and arguments of their own but the second you step beyond that, the second you attempt to influence the discourse by means of violent suppression we no longer have a discourse, we have a regulated idea prison instead run by people who have granted themselves the authority over what you are allowed to hear, over what you are allowed to examine objectively and honestly because they're afraid you might come to a conclusion that runs counter to their conclusions.

I think we ought to read only the kind of books that wound and stab us. If the book we are reading doesn't wake us up with a blow on the head, what are we reading it for? We need the books that affect us like a disaster, that grieve us deeply, like the death of someone we loved more than ourselves, like being banished into forests far from everyone, like a suicide. A book must be the axe for the frozen sea inside us.

~ Franz Kafka

It has always been my belief that, for everyone who is ready and willing, there is a place. It seems to wait for him or her, in some good human cause. Causes are man-made, to be sure, and in the long run, I believe man can control the destiny of civilization on this earth. And yet I know that, beyond it all, there is an everlasting purpose, and within each one of us there is that lonely something that links us with Divinity. The link is there, to be used or disregarded. Each must make his own choice.

The Social Justice Warriors biophobia industry has repeatedly altered its attack on science...It began with a rejection of sex differences. This then changed to sex differences exist but these are strictly due to socialization. Part of this strategy was to draw a distinction between biological sex and gender. We then had the notion of gender as a continuum. And finally we now have a rejection of "fixed binaries and biological essentialism" wherein the notion of the binary nature of biological sex is rejected as well as the idea that biological/evolutionary forces shape the human condition (including evolved sex differences).

A few years back, The Walking Dead was criticized apparently being too diverse and for killing off too many black men. So if a show employs too few minorities it's a problem but it also can't have too many. And if it does it can't kill any of them but killing leading white characters is fine. When I first read about the Walking Dead have a diverse set of characters I thought the article was wrong. So I googled a photo of the then current cast and sure enough, there were a whole lot of minority actors. The interesting thing is that it literally never crossed my mind because a person's race is irrelevant to me. It isn't that I don't notice color; of course I do. I'm not blind. It's just that I don't care about a person's race. It's typically not a relevant factor for me just as a person's hair color isn't. It's a show I enjoy watching and I'm not going to ruin my entertainment by thinking about the race to which each character belongs. It's the racists who are hung up on this crap.

Obviously, we're in a time now where parenting is in crisis, I would think. The reason we have all these whiny, super sensitive girls on campus that'll run shrieking at the slightest thing that offends their ears or drag mattresses onto the stage at commencement exercises, the reason we have that is because the parents have not prepared them for real life. In other words, they've been raised in this bourgeois, pampered cocoon, so I think there's been tremendous failure of parenting, certainly, in terms of young people being ready to take on the real world in their late teens.

IF blacks lives matter, then why don't they talk about the fact that 95% of blacks who get shot are shot by other blacks? Why don't they care about the fact that black males, a mere 6% of the population, commit half of all homicides? Why don't they ever protest the 78% of black fathers that abandon their children? Why don't they talk about blacks dropping out of high school at twice the rate of whites? Because all they really care about is finding a reason to be angry at whites.

Of all tyrannies, a tyranny sincerely exercised for the good of its victims may be the most oppressive. It would be better to live under robber barons than under omnipotent moral busybodies. The robber baron's cruelty may sometimes sleep, his cupidity may at some point be satiated; but those who torment us for our own good will torment us without end for they do so with the approval of their own conscience. They may be more likely to go to Heaven yet at the same time likelier to make a Hell of earth. This very kindness stings with intolerable insult. To be "cured" against one's will and cured of states which we may not regard as disease is to be put on a level of those who have not yet reached the age of reason or those who never will; to be classed with infants, imbeciles, and domestic animals.

~ Star Trek: The Next Generation, TV Show, 1987

Life is pain, highness. Anyone who tells you differently is selling something.

~ The Princess Bride, 1987

Jack, excuse me, but I want you to factor this into your thinking, alright? You heard the man! My air supply's running out! If you don't help me, you're going to wind up with this miniaturized submersible pod floating around your insides with this teeny tiny human skeleton at the helm.

~ Innerspace, 1987

And in the end, I realized that I took more than I gave, I was trusted more than I trusted, and I was loved more than I loved. And what I was looking for was not to be found but to be made.
~ She's Having a Baby, 1988

They all think they see a man who doesn't know which move to make, which way to go; whose private life caused his decline – wretched his grand design. Some are vicious, some are fools and others bind to see in me one of their kind.
~ Chess, 1988, musical

I'll marry you if you admit that respect, admiration and trust equals love.
~ Trust, 1990

A family's like a gun. You point it in the wrong direction and you're going to kill somebody.
~ Trust, 1990

Beast: [singing] She glanced this way, I thought I saw. And when we touched, she didn't shudder at my paw. No, it can't be; I'll just ignore. But then, she's never looked at me that way before.
~ Beauty and the Beast, 1991

Swordplay is like conversation. You have to learn to listen to your opponent.
~ By the Sword, 1991

Imagine you're a deer. You're prancing along, you get thirsty, you spot a little brook, you put your little deer lips down to the cool clear water... BAM! A fin bullet rips off part of your head! Your brains are laying on the ground in little bloody pieces! Now I ask ya. Would you give a f what kind of pants the son of a bitch who shot you was wearing?
~ My Cousin Vinny, 1992

Well, perhaps the laws of physics cease to exist on your stove. Were these magic grits? I mean, did you buy them from the same guy who sold Jack his beanstalk beans?
~ My Cousin Vinny, 1992

Edgar Friendly: See, according to Cocteau's plan, I'm the enemy, cause I like to think, I like to read. I'm into freedom of speech and freedom of choice. I'm the kind of guy who wants to sit in a greasy spoon and think, 'Gee, should I have the T-bone steak or the jumbo rack of barbecued ribs with the side order of gravy fries?' I want high cholesterol. I want to eat bacon, butter and buckets of cheese. Okay? I want to smoke a Cuban cigar the size of Cincinnati in a non-smoking section. I wanna run through the streets naked with green Jell-O all over my body reading Playboy Magazine. Why? Because I suddenly might feel the need to. Okay. Pal? I've seen the future, you know what it is? It's a 47-Year-Old virgin sittin' around in his beige pajamas, drinking a banana-broccoli shake singer 'I'm an Oscar-Meyer wiener'. You wanna live on top. You gotta live Cocteau's way. What he wants. When he wants. How he wants. Your other choice: Come down here. Maybe starve to death.
~ Demolition Man, 1993

I'd like to apologize to the American people. You see... I forgot that I was hired to do a job for you and it was just a temp job at that. I forgot that I had 250 million people that were paying me to make their lives a little bit better, and I didn't live up to my part of the bargain. You see... I think there are certain things you should expect from your President. I ought to care more about you than I do about me. I ought to care more about... what's right than I do about what's popular. I... I ought to be willing to give up this whole thing for something I believe in... because if I'm not If I'm not... -if I'm not If I'm not, then maybe I don't belong here in the first place.

~ Dave, 1993

I never did mind about the little things.

~ Point of No Return, 1993

You know what, Mom? You know what I'm going to get you next Christmas? A big wooden cross, so that every time you feel unappreciated for your sacrifices, you can climb on up and nail yourself to it.

His good opinion once lost is lost forever.

Major Motoko: If we all reacted the same way, we'd be predictable, and there's always more than one way to view a situation. What's true for the group is also true for the individual. It's simple overspecialize, and you breed in weakness. It's slow death.

~ Ghost in the shell, 1995

Increasingly, modern science pursues powers traditionally reserved for the Almighty. But those who encroach upon the province of the gods realize too late that the price for entrance... is destruction.

The pursuit of technology exists to make human life easier and more pleasurable. But once such forces intrude upon the most intimate parts of our lives, will we then forfeit our very soul?

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "Valerie 23"

What if you were to wake up to a different world tomorrow... a world of invaders? Would you raise your voice with the aliens, in a chant of remembrance and regret, bidding farewell to a vanished world? Or would you fight against those who might ultimately help us?

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "Second Soul"

For one man, the battle against death is over. But for the rest of us, the war rages on. At what point does the cost of survival... become too high a price for us to pay?

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "White Light Fever"

Within the human soul reside mysteries dark and deep; about our frailties, our fears, our shame.

Today, or a hundred years from now, the darkest matter will still lie in the human heart.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "Dark matters"

In the darkest of hours... in the greatest of battles... we must never forget who, or what, we are.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "Quality of Mercy"

There is the silence of the oceans and the unending silence of space. There is the welcome silence of serenity and the everlasting silence of death. A cry for help is lost in the shrill noise of the world, but the faintest of whispers, when spoken in silence, can resonate across a universe.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "The Message"

Empathy, sacrifice, love. These qualities are not confined to walls of flesh and blood but are found within the deepest, best parts of man's soul... no matter where that soul resides.

Sometimes it is an easy thing for a man to cry out for retribution until he himself has walked in the footsteps... of those suffering the penalty.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "The Sentence"

Man and machine. We are reaching the point where it is harder to tell which is which, and to guess which one... will ultimately survive.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "Bits of Love"

How easily we scorn what Fate has dealt us and dream of what it has not. Before we cast aside our lots, it would be wise to remember... that dreams have a way of turning into nightmares.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "Second Thoughts"

Before we allow ourselves to be consumed by our regrets, we should remember the mistakes we make in life are not so important as the lessons we draw from them.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "Last Supper"

We quantify our world in order to learn. We break it down into facts, numbers, information. But how far dare we go before we destroy its mystery?

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "Stream of Consciousness"

We make tools to extend our abilities, to further our reach, and fulfill our aspirations. But we must never let them define us. For if there is no difference between tool and maker, then who will be left to build the world?

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "Stream of Consciousness"

Of all the needs which drive us: hunger, thirst, desire... perhaps the most powerful is the simple need to be free.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "The Camp"

Our history is filled with grim reminders of our inhumanity. Armies are crushed, populations ravaged, enemies imprisoned behind walls of stone. But the human spirit is not so easily confined.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "The Camp"

Errant computers can be reprogrammed, imperfect machines redesigned... but human beings are another matter.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "Awakening"

If we measure how much we value life, solely by our dread of dying, then it may well be that we have no sense of its value... at all.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "New Lease"

Each of us creates his own world. We conjure paradises from our hopes, and nightmares born of fear. But what if they are both illusions?

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "Tempests"

The more we learn about the universe around us, the more we realize how little we truly know. But we will only find what wonders await us if no false walls are built around our explorers, and no false restraints applied to the unquenchable human thirst to know it all.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "Double Helix"

Even in the most innocent of minds, there are still secrets best left unrevealed.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "The Revelations of Becka Paulson"

Perhaps the descent into madness... is not a solitary journey, after all.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "The Revelations of Becka Paulson"

Some say that the truth is only what we persuade others to believe. If so, we should be wary... for truth is easily and often hidden by the arguments of those who are false.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "Bodies of Evidence"

For centuries philosophers and theologians have debated what it means to be human. Perhaps the answer has eluded us because it is so simple. To be human is to choose.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "Feasibility Study"

We rely upon others to inform us, but wisdom can never be taught... and we must always decide the truth for ourselves.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "A Special Edition"

As machines grow more human, we must be wary that we do not become... less so.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "The Hunt"

Do we have the power to shape our lives or are we predestined to be who we are? If our fate is but one amongst many, then whose life, if anyone's, is real?

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "In Another Life"

If our lives are indeed the sum total of the choices we've made, then we cannot change who we are. But with every new choice we're given, we can change who we're going to be.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "In Another Life"

In order to survive, a soldier must fight many battles, physical as well as mental. But in the heat of the struggle, reality can sometimes fade, like memory; until only one thing remains certain... the first casualty of war is truth.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "Hearts and Minds"

Humans kill for love, for revenge, for survival, and even for ideas. Perhaps the capacity to kill then is a very true part of our nature. But within this behavior, defined by fear, must we also be taught to hate?

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "Hearts and Minds"

Evolution is guided by the principle of survival of the fittest. For the human animal, the urge to compete is ingrained in our spirit. But in some arenas the rules are not clear and victory may well be an illusion.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "In the Zone"

For the human race life is a ceaseless competition for power, for fame, even love. But when the desire for victory is reduced to winning at any cost, then we can only guarantee our defeat.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "In the Zone"

When we have conquered interstellar space, what will we gain? A new perspective on ourselves or only a wider scope for our arrogance?

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "Relativity Theory"

Cultural relativity. It doesn't need to be a complicated theory. Indeed, it can be as simple, and as deadly, as a two-edged sword.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "Relativity Theory"

They say seeing is believing. But the true question is... what do you believe you've seen?

Throughout history, the search for faith has led man to look to the stars and the heavens for answers. But only by looking into ourselves may we truly find it. Outer Limits,

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "Josh"

Throughout history man has been driven to seek out his origins to determine whether he's the result of a divine plan or merely the sum of all his yesterdays. But what happens if, at the end of his search, he should discover he's neither?

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "Rite of Passage"

Every life is a destination unknown, a journey of tragedies and triumphs that ultimately allows us to discover not only our world, but more importantly, ourselves.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "Rite of Passage"

It has been said that for the truth to exist it takes two people... one to speak it and another to hear it.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "To Tell the Truth"

Mankind will be forever doomed to destruction, if we continue to ask for the truth but then... refuse to listen.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "To Tell the Truth"

They say a little knowledge is a dangerous thing. But what of the man who possesses too much knowledge?

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "Final Exam"

If knowledge is power and power corrupts... how will humankind ever survive?

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "Final Exam"

The differences between men and women have been debated among philosophers since recorded history began. If indeed males are, by their nature, the aggressor, it is this quality that may one day be their undoing.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "Lithia"

It is one of the great mysteries of existence how the smallest drop of understanding can cleanse a sea of mistrust and hate.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "Promised Land"

It is perhaps the central paradox of our existence... to be alive is to be aware of our mortality.

Life is, by definition, a terminal disease.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "Balance of Nature"

Philosophers and poets concur on one fundamental truth... love will find a way; it's just a matter of time.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "Balance of Nature"

Throughout the ages humans have looked to the heavens and wondered, 'Where did we come from, and where are we going?' But will we find those answers in the stars, or in ourselves?

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "The Origin of Species"

How far will mankind have to go before we realize that the only antidote to self-annihilation... is trust?

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "Phobos Rising"

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "The Grell"

Our greatest achievements do more than heal the sick and give strength to the weak, they also lead us from the darkness to a place of hope and light.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "The Other Side"

The wounds of war run deep, cutting across generations. But there is always the hope of healing, so long as there are souls among us whose hearts are more full of love... than hate.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "Tribunal"

Only with the realization that, what we share with our enemy is greater than what divides us, can peace ever be won.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "Summit"

Perhaps we can never fully escape the animals we once were, but with our minds and our hearts, we can always fight to remain human.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "Descent"

It is our nature to fear a dark purpose in that which we do not understand. But true evil may lie more in ignorance than in suspicion.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "The Inheritors"

It is said that love and truth walk hand in hand. But if the need is great enough, can we learn to love a lie?

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "Stranded"

The greatest lesson one generation can bestow upon the next... is that reverence for the past ensures the future.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "Fathers and Sons"

True sacrifice is not what we surrender, but what we ultimately gain.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "Star Crossed"

To those who would corrupt the search for truth... be warned. The sword of justice cuts both ways.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "Judgement Day"

In an age when we are led to believe that we can be anything we want to be, what most eludes us is simply... being ourselves.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "Skin Deep"

Ultimately, our survival may depend less on our ability to overcome our enemies than the weakness of our own character.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "Manifest Destiny"

When we endeavor to fill a terrible void, sometimes the void can consume us.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "Simon Says"

Sometimes, the best way to hide the truth is to keep it in plain sight.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "Down to Earth"

Without darkness there would be no light. Without error, no sure path to the truth. In a world where absolutes reign, what may be most important is finding the balance.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "Inner Child"

If we choose to give birth to a thinking machine, we must be prepared for the day when our progeny will demand independence.

~ Outer Limits, 1995 TV series, "Glitch"

No idea is so strong it should not be tested by doubt, and no man so powerful that he is infallible.

~ Outer Limits 1995 TV series, "Lion's Den"

It is said we are judged, not by our words, but by our deeds. And yet, how many of us are ready to stand up to such scrutiny?

~ Outer Limits 1995 TV series, "Human Trials"

I'm so sorry, and I'm so embarrassed. I hope this doesn't scare you away from golf... Because it's such a great sport! I-I know your people... the black people, don't really enjoy the game, but I think that's because you can't get into the nice clubs! The restricted ones. And on the other hand, your people are so good at so many sports, that maybe it's good that we white folks have a sport that you people are not so good at!

~ My Fellow Americans, 1996

The odd thing about this form of communication is that you're more likely to talk about nothing than something. But I just want to say that all this nothing has meant more to me than so many somethings.

~ You've Got Mail, 1998

My name is Maximus Decimus Meridius, commander of the Armies of the North, General of the Felix Legions and loyal servant to the TRUE emperor, Marcus Aurelius. Father to a murdered son, husband to a murdered wife. And I will have my vengeance, in this life or the next.

~ Gladiator, 2000

~ Kate & Leopold 2001

Edmond: If you ever loved me, don't rob me of my hate. It's all I have.

~ The Count of Monte Cristo, 2002

"This... stuff"? Oh. Okay. I see. You think this has nothing to do with you. You go to your closet and you select... I don't know... that lumpy blue sweater, for instance because you're trying to tell the world that you take yourself too seriously to care about what you put on your back. But what you don't know is that that sweater is not just blue, it's not turquoise. It's not lapis. It's actually cerulean. And you're also blithely unaware of the fact that in 2002, Oscar de la Renta did a collection of cerulean gowns. And then I think it was Yves Saint Laurent... wasn't it who showed cerulean military jackets? I think we need a jacket here. And then cerulean quickly showed up in the collections of eight different designers. And then it, uh, filtered down through the department stores and then trickled on down into some tragic Casual Corner where you, no doubt, fished it out of some clearance bin. However, that blue represents millions of dollars and countless jobs and it's sort of comical how you think that you've made a choice that exempts you from the fashion industry when, in fact, you're wearing the sweater that was selected for you by the people in this room from a pile of stuff.

~ The Devil Wears Prada, 2006

Dear Baby, I hope someday somebody wants to hold you for 20 minutes straight and that's all they do. They don't pull away. They don't look at your face. They don't try to kiss you. All they do is wrap you up in their arms and hold on tight, without an ounce of selfishness to it.

~ Waitress, 2007

But like so many villains, he believes he's the hero.

~ Legend of the Seeker, "Fever", 2009

I'm not a comic book villain. Do you seriously think I would explain my master stroke to you if there were even the slightest possibility you could affect the outcome? I triggered it 35 minutes ago.

~ Watchmen, 2009

When you play the game of thrones you win or you die.

~ Cersei Lannister: Game of Thrones, TV Show - HBO, 2011

Kiera Cameron: The future is catching up to you.

~ Continuum – TV Show - syfy channel, 2012

Sheriff Walt Longmire: Dishonesty is disloyalty

~ Longmire – TV Show – A&E

You don't get to choose if you get hurt in this world ... but you do have some say in who hurts you. I like my choices.

~ The Fault in Our Stars, 2014

Becoming a father made me want to be a better man, and I started asking hard questions about the family business. So here we are; as I write this, you're 12 and a fine, good-hearted boy, so I'm sure you'll be a fine, good-hearted man. That's all I know - I don't know what happened to me or your mother or how life has turned out for you or even how old you are so I'll resist giving you much fatherly advice, only this: You can't have both happiness and the truth. You have to choose. I beg of you my son, please choose happiness, unless, unless you feel a calling - a true calling.

~ Gotham – TV Show, season 2, episode 1, "Damned If You Do")

Sometimes the only way forward is to revisit the things in your past that were holding you back. You have to deal with them head on because no matter how scary they may be because once you do you'll see you can go further than you ever imagined.

~ The Flash CW TV Show, "Flash back", 2016

Life's a little bit messy. We all make mistakes. No matter what type of animal you are, change starts with you.

~ Zootopia, 2016

If you can hear this you're alone. The only thing left of me is the sound of my voice. I don't know if any of us made it. Did we win? Did we lose? But either way it's over. Someone once asked me if I had learned anything from it all. So let me tell you what I learned, I learned everyone dies alone; but if you meant something to someone. If you helped someone or loved someone; if even a single person remembers you then maybe you never really die. And maybe this isn't the end at all.

~ Person of Interest, 2016

The Joker: I wouldn't do that. Remembering's dangerous. I find the past such a worrying, anxious place. Yes, memory is so treacherous. One moment you're lost in a carnival of delight, childhood aromas, the flashing neon of puberty, all that sentimental candy-floss. The next, it takes you somewhere you don't want to be. Somewhere dark and cold, filled with damp ambiguous-shaped things you'd rather forget. Memories can be vile, repulsive and gruesome. Like children, no? But can we live without them. Memories are what our reason is based on. If we deny them, we deny reason itself. Although, what's wrong with that, really? It's not like we're contractually tied down to rationality. There is no sanity clause. So when you find yourself locked unto an unpleasant train of thought, headed for places in your past where the screaming is unavoidable... Remember this, there's always madness. You can just step outside; close the door on all those dreadful things that happened. You can lock them away forever.

~ The Killing Joke, 2016

Tom Buckley: It's never for anything. Why do you think that people like films? It's because stories are structured; have a shape, a purpose, a meaning; and when things gone bad they're still a part of a plan; there's a point to them. Unlike life.

~ Their Finest, 2016

We cling to memories as if they define us, but they don't. What we do is what defines us.

~ Dr. Ouelet: Ghost in the Shell, 2017

The Major: I don't understand. What is the point of making a Ghost in the Shell if you only create the shell and not put the ghost in?

~ The Major: Ghost in the Shell, 2017

Diana Prince: I used to want to save the world, to end war and bring peace to mankind. But then I glimpsed the darkness that lives within their light. I learnt that inside every one of them there will always be both. The choice each must make for themselves - something no hero will ever defeat. And now I know... that only love can truly save the world. So now I stay, I fight, and I give - for the world I know can be. This is my mission now, forever.

~ Wonder Woman, 2017

The Colonel: There are times when it is necessary to abandon our humanity to save humanity.

~ War for the Planet of the Apes, 2017

Mr. Dawson: [On the Shivering Soldier] He's shell-shocked, George. He's not himself. He might never be himself again.

~ Dunkirk, 2017

CHAPTER SEVEN

Poems

SOMEONE POSTED THIS POEM:

Some folks think
By burning churches
They burn
Freedom
Some folks think by imprisoning me
They imprison
Freedom
Some folks think by killing a man
They kill
Freedom
But freedom
Stands up and laughs
In their faces
And says,
No
Not so!
No!
~by Langston Hughes

I WROTE A RESPONDING POEM:

Some folks believe
By burning a CVS
They extinguish
Racism
Some folks have faith
Letting brutes roam free
Will bring forth
The good life
Some folks blame cops
'the White Man's Devils'
Thinking when they stand tall
The black man will fall
To be kicked bloody and broken
Mocked and laughed at
With gleeful snickers
In front of their faces
Cheering out loud:

“Those poor pitiful souls
 Will never have any Freedom!
 No
 Hell no!
 Not on my watch!”

I HAVE FREEDOM IN MY LOVE,
 AND IN MY SOUL AM FREE,
 ANGELS ALONE THAT SOAR ABOVE
 ENJOY SUCH LIBERTY
 ~ Richard Lovelace

Here’s another poem I posted:

A flipped coin,
 Forever spinning.
 From head to tails and back again,
 Two minds next to every point,
 South meets north,
 East crosses west;
 Sometimes my tank is running on empty
 Sometimes my cup runneth over;
 Bound in a knot and completely undone,
 A storm with myself –
 Summer showers against a winter storm.

A poem can say so much more than a tweet, but a tweet can be a poem. Nevertheless I encourage anyone who uses twitter or texts a message on their phone to write some poems. Try it out. What do you have to lose? Being forced to write in a limited parameter is an unconscious exercise to write in a timed meter and it was Robert Frost who said, “Writing free verse is like playing tennis with the net down”. Once you have established a rhythm everything else can be added later, like metaphors, similes, rhyming schemes, internal rhymes and symbolism

Here is another poem that I sent to someone that I thought needed it, not that I ever know if they ever read it. That’s the thing about tweeter and all social media, you don’t know if the other person has viewed what you sent, let alone considered it. Did you have profound influence or did it just get dropped down the memory hole:

I don’t mean to cavil the situation
 So I’ll strive to be as laconic as I can
 We mustn’t ever seem too venal
 Expunging all the foibles at hand

Living in a death of emotions
 Free of ostentatious conversations
 Censuring everyone around us

Never assimilating into other lands

Being occupied with austere attitudes
 With the only solace of erudition
 No quandaries are ever protracted
 Only the fervent violence of demand

Too egoistical to ingratiate anyone
 Mind too hateful to be quiescent
 Soul far too lost to be ameliorated
 And too circumspect to ever stand

DON'T QUIT

When things go wrong as they sometimes will,
 When the road you're trudging seems all uphill
 When the funds are low and the debts are high,
 And you want to smile, but you have to sigh,
 When care is pressing you down a bit-
 Rest if you must, but don't quit.

Life is strange with its twists and turns,
 As every one of us sometimes learns,
 And many a fellow turns about
 When he might have won had he stuck it out.
 Don't give up though the pace seems slow -
 You may succeed with another blow.

Often the goal is nearer than
 It seems to a fair and faltering man
 Often the struggler has given up
 When he might have captured the victor's cup,
 And he learned too late when night came down,
 How close he was to the golden crown.

Success is failure turned inside out-
 The silver tint of the clouds of doubt,
 And you never can tell how close you are,
 It may be near when it seems afar,
 So stick to fight when you're hardest hit. -
 It's when things seem worst that you mustn't quit.
 ~ UNKNOWN

On her way to work one morning
 Down the path alongside the lake

A tender hearted woman saw a poor half frozen snake
His pretty colored skin had been all frosted with the dew
"Poor thing," she cried, "I'll take you in and I'll take care of you"
"Take me in tender woman
Take me in, for heaven's sake
Take me in, tender woman," sighted the snake
She wrapped him all cozy in a comforter of silk
And laid him by her fireside with some honey and some milk
She hurried home from work that night and soon as she arrived
She found that pretty snake she'd taken to had been revived
"Take me in, tender woman
Take me in for heaven's sake
Take me in, tender woman," sighed the snake
She clutched him to her bosom, "You're so beautiful," she cried
"But if I hadn't brought you in by now you might have died"
She stroked his pretty skin again and kissed and held him tight
Instead of saying thanks, the snake gave her a vicious bite
"Take me in, tender woman
Take me in, for heaven's sake
Take me in, tender woman," sighed the snake
"I saved you," cried the woman
"And you've bitten me, but why?
You know your bite is poisonous and now I'm going to die"
"Oh shut up, silly woman," said the reptile with a grin
You knew damn well I was a snake before you took me in
"Take me in, tender woman
Take me in, for heaven's sake
Take me in, tender woman," sighed the snake.
~ Al Wilson, The Snake
President Donald Trump read this poem on his 100th day in office

If you stay, stay forever,
If you go, do it today.
If you change, changer for the better.
If you talk, make sure you mean what you say.

Word Games

If you expect nothing from anybody, you're never disappointed.
~ Sylvia Plath

Sometimes following your heart means losing your mind.

I don't know where Bernie Sanders was when I was trying to get healthcare in 1993 and 1994.
~ Hillary Clinton (he was literally standing right behind her).

To anti-Semites spamming my timeline: I'm less worried about the Trump Train than the boxcars you seem enthusiastic about attaching to it.
~ Ben Shapiro

Somewhere between the start of the trail and the end is the mystery why we choose to walk.

Obama is naming a SCOTUS nominee today. GOP should treat that nominee the same way Obama treated Scalia's funeral.
~ Ben Shapiro

Electricity can be dangerous. My nephew tried to stick a penny into a plug. Whoever said a penny doesn't go far didn't see him shoot across the floor. I told him he was grounded.
~ Tim Allen

"His father [George H.W. Bush] actually did something pretty good because he pulled back [from Iraq] and didn't get into the trap
~ Donald Trump

Regardless for what reason we went into [Iraq], it was a massive, massive, horrible mistake.
~ Donald Trump

I'm not sure that you can separate the policy & the personal. I will say this, NAFTA is a disaster.
~ Donald Trump

We live in a country where cops are called criminals. Criminals are called victims. People who don't work, get a free ride. People who do work are told they don't contribute enough. Desecrating our flag is acceptable. A sniper is called a coward. Our president negotiates with terrorists. We supply guns to drug cartels, and try to disarm our citizens. And people think they deserve to earn more flipping burgers than soldiers who are defending their freedoms.

[Barack Obama] has done more to hurt the American people than any president in history.
~ Rev. Bill Owens

Government's first duty is to protect the people, not run their lives.
~ Ronald Reagan

One must know oneself. If this does not serve to discover truth, it at least serves as a rule to life and there is nothing better.

Other people's opinion of you does not have to become your reality

At a time when the American people are scared, when we need reassurance, [president Obama] mocks us. He talks down to us. He divides us. His ability to incite division: Unparalleled in our history.

~Judge Jeanine Pirro

Bruce Jenner is now a woman. So what? Real news would be if the POTUS ever becomes a man.

Liberals like to cry racism because doing so requires no intelligence.

Obama trusts Iran with nukes, but not U.S. Marines with handguns

~ Mark Levin

There are 27 million slaves in the world today ... more than at any time in human history. 27 million Black people are still owned as slaves today in Muslim countries. No liberal ever complains about this.

Black student wearing a shirt that reads: Give Me Reparations Bitch! – Were you a slave? No? Was your mother a slave? No? Was your mother's mother a slave? No? Is Anyone alive who actually was a slave? No? Reparations? For What!?

When I hear these things, 'Black Lives Matter,' the only people who really believe that are American police officers who go into American ghettos every day to keep people from killing each other. When you see the Black-on-Black homicide that happens on a very frequent basis, we don't see protests, we don't see marches, and we don't see demands for change. If black lives—if they really mattered, that's where the outrage would be. That's where we'd see the protests.

~ Sherriff David Clarke

I'm too pissed off to be diplomatic and I'm not going to stick my head in the sand. The President of the United States started this war on police.

~ Sheriff David Clarke

If we're going to remove the Confederate flag from display, what about the more than 50 public buildings, bridges, roads, dams and highways named after Robert Byrd? He was a Democrat who served as a U.S. Representative from 1953-1959 and as a U.S. Senator from 1959-2010. Before his career in politics, Byrd created a new chapter of the Ku Klux Klan in West Virginia. Byrd became a KKK recruiter and was elected the top officer (Exalted Cyclops). He once said: "I shall never fight in the armed forces with a negro by my side. Rather I should die a thousand times and see Old Glory trampled in the dirt never to rise again, than to see this beloved land of ours become degraded by lace mongrels, a throwback to the blackest specimen from the wilds.”

Life in general has never been close to fair, so the pretense that the government can make it fair is a valuable and inexhaustible asset to politicians who want to expand government.

~ Thomas Sowell

Black Lives Matter thinking that firefighters only put out fire on non-burning houses doesn't make sense because during past riots blacks attacked firefighters and cut holes into their hoses.

It's now very common to hear people say, "I'm rather offended by that," as if that gives them certain rights. It's no more than a whine. It has no meaning, it has no purpose, it has no reason to be respected as a phrase. "I'm offended by that." Well, so fing what?

~ Stephen Fry

To be a writer does not mean to preach a truth, It means to discover a truth.

The secret of change is to focus all of your energy not into fighting the old but on building the new.

~ Socrates

It is too late to be willing to be blackmailed by people who are fundamentally insincere in their insults.

~ Douglas Murray

I commit myself to realize that the thought of me failing does not actually exist, and thus the only way I can 'know' that I am going to fail is if I am already creating it myself. I commit myself to stop creating myself as failure.

A lie which is half a truth is ever the blackest of lies.

You can, you should and if you're brave enough to start, you will

~ Stephen King

There is not a truth existing which I fear ... or would wish unknown to the whole world.

~ Thomas Jefferson

There's always fear of the unknown where there's mystery. It's possible to achieve a state where you realize the truth of life and fear disappears, and a lot of people have reached that state, but next to none of them are on Earth. There's probably a few.

~ David Lynch

Doesn't Black Lives Matter want to be part of all the lives of the world or do they want to be a tiny little island all by themselves.

It is easier to build strong children than to repair broken men.

She wasn't wearing a hoodie, but was killed in the hood ... Planned Parenthood.

There are two ways to be fooled. One is to believe what isn't true; the other is to refuse to accept what is true.

There's a difference between being supportive of making mistakes and pretending mistakes are not mistakes.

I don't want to be either a jerk or weirdo. I just want us to be able to swim independently in our own pools.

~ hales @thesublemon

I get really mad sometimes that so much of history is so unknown. If we knew it all we could see all the patterns and just move on.

The difference between justice & Social Justice is the difference between a fair trial & a witch-hunt.

~ Get Wild@Uruguayan_Gator

Babies are like liberals, they can't do anything for themselves, their words sound like nothing an adult could ever say, the boys are totally indistinguishable from girls and they would ruin countries that put them in charge.

Modern progressivism is ... is the politics of envy, anger, entitlement, lawlessness, violence and bald face lies. [Obama] and his leftist cohorts would rather rule over ruins than disappear into the dustbin of history of a healthy and racially healed nation.

~ Bill Whittle

During the same years that Hillary was communicating about national security and world affairs off the grid, the Department of Justice has had no qualms threatening news reporters and prosecuting whistleblowers under the Espionage Act.

I condemn the trivial bullsh it is to go after a man who makes a scientific breakthrough & all we do as organized women is fret about his shirt.

~ Ayaan Hirsi Ali

I'm not upset that you lied to me, I'm upset that from now on I can't believe you.

~ Frierich Nietzsche

Obamacare worst thing to happen to the U.S. since slavery.

~ Ben Carson

I may be an asshole but I don't treat people badly. I treat them accordingly.

Depression is such a cruel punishment. There are no fevers, no rashes, no blood tests to send people scurrying in concern, just the slow erosion of self, as insidious as cancer. And like cancer, it is essentially a solitary.

White people are as white as snowmen? That's racist. You guys are taking this color thing too far.

Why be politically correct when you can be right.

Throughout my pregnancy no one has ever asked: "When is your fetus due?"

I was suicidal. I was manic depressive and I just wasn't chemically balanced enough to enjoy (my success.)

Courage is not the absence of fear, but rather the judgement that something else is more important than fear.

~ Ambrose Redmoon

There's nothing more beautiful than a person whose heart has been broken but still believes in love.

I'm a tolerant liberal! Agree with me or else you are a racist, sexist, homophobic, islamophobic, xenophobic, inbred, redneck, bible thumping, nascar loving, gun toting, America loving bigots!

Trust takes years to build yet seconds to shatter.

At the end of the day, no one actually cares why you got it wrong. All that matters is that it's wrong. And if you don't think in terms of excuses, you're less likely to make a mistake in the first place.

With all due respect, the fact is we had four dead Americans. Was it because of a protest or was it because of guys out for a walk one night decided to go kill some Americans? What difference, at this point, does it make?

~ Hillary Clinton

I remember landing under sniper fire. There was supposed to be some kind of a greeting ceremony at the airport, but instead we just ran with our heads down to get into the vehicles to get to our base.

I can't worry about every undercapitalized business.

A Candidate's name written in chalk is a violation of your "safe space" ... But a man wearing a dress using the bathroom with my niece isn't a violation of hers?

And I started panicking... getting scared, thinking when are they going to stop? Are they going to kill me? I mean, these aren't rational people.

~ Cole Bartiromo (political blogger attacked by anti-Trump protesters)

What you have is Mitt Romney running around the country saying 'Well, you know, my wife tells me that what women really care about are economic issues, and when I listen to my wife, that's what I'm hearing.' Guess what? His wife has actually never worked a day in her life.

~ Hilary Rosen (Barack Obama adviser)

Well, I haven't seen the records. I haven't seen Hilary Rosen; I personally know three Hilary Rosen's, so I don't know that this Hilary Rosen is the one we're talking about.

~ Jay Carney (White House Press Secretary)

Smiling at women? Sexist. Being nice to women? Sexist. Not being nice to women? Sexist. If everything is sexist, the word has no meaning. Was that the goal? Isn't that sexist, err ... I mean whatever new word we need to define what sexist meant before you destroyed it?

There is no possible way to simultaneously think about something and clear it from your conscience mind.

~ Paul Ruggeri

Isn't it a little racist to call it Black Friday?"

~ Joy Behar (on political correctness)

[My grandmother] is a typical white person.

~ Barack Obama

But I want us to be super careful when we use the language 'hard worker.' Because I actually keep an image of folks working in cotton fields on my office wall, because it is a reminder about what hard work looks like; in the context of relative privilege, I just want to point out, that when you talk work-life balance and being a hard worker, the moms who don't have health care who are working, we don't call them hard workers. We call them failures, people who are sucking off the system.

~ Melissa Harris-Perry

No president will be able to address the problems that we face unless there is a mass movement, a political revolution in this country.

There was one of two things I had a right to: liberty or death. If I could not have one, I would take the other, for no man should take me alive. I should fight for liberty as long as my strength lasted.

A man who stands for nothing will for anything.
